FOREWORD

From time immemorial, India has been a Centre for Learning. In medieval times, finding a passage to India was an obsession, resulting in the discovery of a new continent. All along, India has been a global Centre of Education and had attracted many scholars from across the world.

Our prayer has been, Asato Ma Sad Gamaya; Tamaso Ma Joytir Gamaya i.e. (Lead us from Untruth to Truth, Lead us from Darkness (Ignorance) to Light (knowledge)). This ancient Sanskrit Verse from Vedic period reflects the passion and wisdom of ancient Indians about their quest for true knowledge. This tradition led us through our noteworthy academic achievements, especially, in the areas of information technology, Medical Sciences and Space Research etc.

Higher education opportunities in India have witnessed a substantial increase in recent times and there has been ongoing enhancement of institutional and infrastructural capacity. The number of Universities, Colleges and Technical academic institutions has increased manifold. Today, India has re-emerged as a centre of learning, imparting quality education, in English medium, at affordable costs. Institutions like Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs), National Institutes of Technology (NITs), All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), Indian Institutes of Management (IIMs) and several Indian universities and Institutes are noted centres of excellence, inspiring awe and admiration.

Our Institutions have been educating students from around the world and today, proudly counts many eminent persons, from Hamid Karzai to Aung San Suu Kyi to the present Secretary General of ASEAN. Today, wherever you travel, from Chile to the South Pacific Islands, you will find ICCR scholars, which is a reservoir of goodwill for India.

It is my privilege to present this edition of "Studying in India", with an updated list of banks, hospitals, travel agencies, foreigners' registration offices, complete with contact addresses, telephone numbers and email ids. These are agencies that oversees scholars, during their stay in India, need to interact with. Plus, we have, for the first time, added a network of volunteers, nationwide, offering to hand-hold and mentor foreign students in India, with our traditional sense of warmth and hospitality.

I sincerely hope that this handbook would be found useful and help foreign students in making their study/stay in India a pleasant experience.

INDIA - LAND AND PEOPLE

INDIA is the seventh largest country in the world. It has the world's second largest population. Located entirely in the northern hemisphere it is bound by Pakistan, Afghanistan, China, Nepal, Bhutan, Myanmar and Bangladesh. The Arabian sea, the Indian Ocean and the Bay of Bengal border its coastline.

The mainland has three well-defined geographical regions, the mountain zone of the Himalayas, the Indo-gangetic plain, (formed by the basins of three great rivers Indus, Ganga and Brahmaputra) and the southern peninsula of the Deccan Plateau.

The main river systems are the Himalayan rivers like Ganga and Brahmaputra which are snow-fed; the peninsular rivers like Godavari, Krishna and Mahanadi; and the coastal rivers.

India has a rich variety of vegetation and animal life, with special types of flora and fauna.

The climate of the country varies from region to region. In some places, including the coastal areas, the climate is almost uniform throughout the year. There are quite a few places in the country which have a moderate climate, such as towns in the North of the country or Bangalore in the South. On the other hand most areas are very hot in summer.

The Indian Seasons can be divided as follows:

March to June : Summer

July to October : Monsoon

November to February : Winter

Studying in India

In terms of agriculture, a wide variety of crops and vegetables are grown that has made it a surplus food-producing country. Animal husbandry, dairy, poultry and fishery industry are also well developed.

Present-day India has made significant headway in large-scale industrialisation. As a result, India has become one of the top five industrialised nations of the world. It produces every conceivable industrial item and consumer goods, and has achieved significant success in frontier scientific research including peaceful application of nuclear energy, space and satellite research, communication technology and biotechnology. India also has the third largest reservoir of scientific and technological manpower. Pioneering scientists such as Homi Bhaba, J C. Bose, Satyen Bose, Nobel laureates C. V. Raman, Hargovind Khorana and S. Chandrasekhar have won laurels for India both at home and abroad.

Historically India is an ancient land with a continuous civilization of 5000 years. The Indus valley civilisation (3000 BC to 1500 BC) was followed by the Sanskrit-speaking Vedic period (1500 BC to 500 BC). The first of the Indian empires, the Mauryan empire began shortly after Chandragupta Maurya (274-237 BC). The post-Asoka empires were followed by empires of the Gupta, Pratihara, Pala, Chalukya, Chola and Pandya dynasties. Subsequently around the 9th century, the Muslim period was established followed by the arrival of the British in the 17th century.

On August 15, 1947 India attained independence. It adopted a parliamentary system of government with a union of states proclaiming itself to be a Sovereign Democratic Republic.

The country has been divided into 29 States and 7 Union Territories. The States have considerable autonomy of their own while the Union Territories are governed by the President through appointed administrators. At the village level one finds the system of Panchayati Raj. It is a pattern of self-government that oversees the planning and execution of projects at district, block and village levels. Adult suffrage is universal.

India's national flag is a horizontal tricolour of deep saffron at the top, white in the middle and dark green at the bottom in equal proportion. In the center of the white band is a wheel, which appears on the abacus of the Sarnath Lion seal of Asoka.

The song, Jana-gana-mana, composed by the great poet Rabindranath Tagore was adopted by the Constituent Assembly as the National Anthem of India on 24 January, 1950. Hindi is the official language with English as the associate and link language. Numerous other languages and dialects are used in various parts of the country of which 22 languages are recognised in the Constitution.

India's cultural and social diversity is all-pervading and yet a harmonious balance permeates throughout the social fabric. Social attitudes are often based on traditional beliefs, religious adherence and through interaction with modern social and political concepts.

India is a secular country. Hindus form the largest community followed by the Muslims, Christians, Sikhs, Buddhists, Jains and Parsis. Seventy percent of the Indian people live in villages with agriculture or agro-based small industry providing the major occupation. With the large industrial cities and urban centres coming up, a new middle class and a new working class have emerged where the social and cultural order is different and pluralistic.

In creative arts, India's sculpture, architecture and painting have had a rich history. The cave architecture of Ajanta and the cave-wall paintings of Ajanta and Ellora, the temples of Khajuraho, the Mughal and Rajasthani paintings and the Taj Mahal are but few examples of India's cultural heritage. The history of accomplishments in dance, drama and music is equally formidable and impressive. The classical dances still thrive in India especially in its major forms-the Bharatanatyam, Kathakali, Kathak and Manipuri.

Traditional crafts and textiles have been equally famous from ancient times. They also served to carry forward myths, legends, motifs and other aspects of a culture peculiar to a region. Some famous examples of such crafts are the warp-weft type of dyeing as seen in textiles from Orissa (Ikkat), embroidery from Bengal (Baluchari) and Banarasi silk-brocade from Varanasi.

The literary tradition of India consists of the great body of Sanskrit, Prakrit and Pali literature. The Samhitas and Upanishads represent great works of literature, sociology, philosophy and religion. The treatises on medicine, science, mathematics etc. of this period are also significant. Of the epic literature, the Mahabharata and the Ramayana are the foremost examples. Descendants of Sanskrit language like Bengali, Gujarati, Hindi, Marathi have also produced great literary works during mediaeval period.

The Dravidian group of languages, like Tamil, Telugu, Kannada and Malayalam have had their share of outstanding literary works of the past, like the Kurals, the Kaviraja-marga, Ramacharitam and Mahabharata of Nannaya.

Much of ancient Indian fiction consists of folk tales, which have been narrated from generation to generation. These represent myths, legends, stories of adventure, anecdotes and jokes and are often intended for moral edification. There is a rich reservoir of literature which grew up during the Muslim period, mostly on royal dynasties, history, travelogue, legal systems and mystical philosophy.

With the introduction of Western and English education in India, many Indians started to write in English. Their literary work covered wide areas, from fiction to poetry, philosophy, sociology, history, drama, biography and art.

Great works written in different Indian languages, have been highly acclaimed and have won laurels all over the world, including award of the Nobel prize in literature for the famous book of poems, Geetanjali by Rabindranath Tagore.

Know about Indians

People

Indians are generally friendly and informal. Many of them may not wait to be introduced in order to talk to the student. In buses and trains he may find people eager to talk. In cities and towns people tend to be a little reserved.

Women in India

Women in India participate fully in areas such as education, sports, politics, media, art and culture, service sectors, science and technology, etc. Educated women have cast aside many customary inhibitions and have come forward in many ways in the last few decades. They will talk to the student when he is introduced to them. The modern Indian woman are traditional in some ways.

Dress

There is no strict uniformity in dress, the styles varying from province to province and from community to community. In the North, men wear a loose type of pyjama and kurta or shirt, while in the South and the East they use dhotis. Most women usually wear the sari, but the way it is worn varies from place to place.

Manners and Customs

In India, as elsewhere, certain customs are observed in social matters. When people are introduced to each other they usually say "Namaste", which is the most common form of greeting. The same form is used at parting as well. Both the hands are joined and raised in greeting. Some people also shake hands and use the English form of greeting like "Good Morning", "Good Afternoon" and "Good Evening". Women do not generally shake hands.

International Students' Advisors in many universities and colleges as well as a number of clubs and associations occasionally arrange visits to Indian homes. It may be useful to get in touch with them.

FROM time immemorial, India has been a centre for learning. Thousands of years ago, great scholars used to teach through scriptures. A variety of subjects such as Philosophy, Religion, Medicine, Literature, Drama and Arts, Astrology, Mathematics and Sociology was taught and masterpieces on these subjects have been written. Under the Buddhist influence, education was available to virtually everyone who wanted it and some world famous institutions arose out of the monasteries, such as, Nalanda, Vikramshila and Takshashila (now in Pakistan). Nalanda is especially noteworthy flourishing from 5th to 13th century AD. It had at one time about ten thousand resident students and teachers on its roll, which included Chinese, Sri Lankan, Korean and other international scholars.

During the 11th century, the Muslims established elementary and secondary schools, "Madrassahs" or colleges and even universities in cities like Delhi, Lucknow and Allahabad, using Arabic mostly as the medium of instruction. During the mediaeval period, there was excellent interaction between Indian and Islamic traditions in all fields of knowledge, like Theology, Religion, Philosophy, Fine Arts, Painting, Architecture, Mathematics, Medicine and Astronomy.

With the arrival of the British, English education came into being with the help of the European missionaries. In 1817, Hindu College was established in Calcutta. The Elphinstone Institution was set up in 1834 in Bombay. In 1857 three universities were set up at Calcutta, Chennai and Mumbai. Since then, Western education has made steady advances in the country. With 711 universities and thousands of colleges affiliated to them, including Engineering colleges and Technological institutes, many Medical colleges, scores of Agricultural institutes and many other specialised centres of learning and research in every subject and discipline, India can claim its position as one of the leading countries providing quality higher education to its people as well as to students and scholars coming from countries all over the world.

Indian universities and institutes of higher education and research today have made significant contribution to transmission of knowledge and enquiry into frontiers of science and technology. In the field of traditional subjects of Arts and Humanities as well as in Pure Sciences, Applied Physics and Chemistry, Mathematics and in areas of technology, the universities and higher institutes have been playing a leading role to transform the country into a modern industrialised, technologically advanced state. The ushering of green revolution and tremendous progress in dairy development have made India a major food-producing country on one hand; on the other hand, its development of space technology, production and launching of indigenous satellites, development of peaceful nuclear energy have brought it into the forefront of technologically advanced nations to which a large number of developing countries looks for training and guidance.

The Indian universities and institutes of higher learning have been playing their role to promote the needs and aspirations of higher education and research to Indian students and scholars. These centres have been extending their cooperation and friendship towards students of other developing countries also, where facilities for higher studies and research are not adequate.

UNIVERSITIES and specialised institutes are the centres for higher learning in India. The studies and disciplines cover a wide range of subjects from poetry to computer engineering to space research. Most of the universities and higher centres of learning and research are autonomous in function. A good number of universities have a federal structure composed of affiliated colleges on one tier and the university departments on the other. The affiliated colleges teach, in general, undergraduate courses, whereas the university departments conduct postgraduate teaching and advanced research. The university decides the criteria of admission into colleges and coordinates the first degree examination in the undergraduate programmes and award of degree.

Types of Universities

The Indian universities are basically of two types – Residential (campus) and Residential-cum-affiliating. The Residential type universities are generally confined to a single campus and have provision for both postgraduate and undergraduate programmes, and also have a strong emphasis on research. Aligarh Muslim University, Banaras Hindu University, Mysore University and Jawaharlal Nehru University are notable examples, though JNU does not have undergraduate teaching. A variation in the Residential universities e.g. the University of Allahabad and the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda does exist which have constituent colleges.

Affiliating universities generally have a central campus which has departments or schools that impart post-graduate instructions and conduct research. They also have a variable number of colleges affiliated to them and these may be distributed over a number of districts, in accordance with the jurisdiction of the university. The colleges mostly do undergraduate teaching though some of them also have postgraduate courses in selected subjects. Most Indian universities are of affiliating types with larger ones like Calcutta, Mumbai and Bangalore having more than 300-400 affiliated college. The Central Government of India which establishes Central Universities, is also entrusted with the responsibility of declaring an educational institution as a Deemed University. However the declaration is made on the recommendation of University Grants Commission (UGC) of India. besides, the UGC is entrusted with the responsibility of maintaining the standard of higher education in India.

Therefore Deemed University status is conferred on an educational institute only when it meets the standard norm set by UGC. The UGC may also decide to fund some of these Deemed Universities. The Deemed University status enables the educational institutes to design their own syllabus and course work. They also get the autonomy to set their own guidelines regarding admission and fees. Some of the Deemed Universities are also allowed to grant degrees on their own name. Thus the Deemed Universities in India get the opportunities to develop their own unique course structure to prepare the students to enter into diverse fields after the completion of their study. Those Deemed Universities which continue to perform well will eventually get the status of a full-fledged University. Presently there are 130 Deemed Universities in the country.

The institutions of National Importance are established or so designated through Acts of Parliament. There are 51 Institutions of National Importance. As a special case, they are empowered to award their own degrees, a privilege normally granted only to universities.

Out of the 711 universities, only 45 are central universities, all of which are funded for development and maintenance by the Government of India through the UGC. All others are managed by the states which give them their constitution and funding. At the central level of government, the channels for funding are the University Grants Commission, the Indian Council of Agricultural Research and the All India Council of Technical Education.

Colleges

There are four types of colleges: government colleges, privately managed colleges, university colleges, and professional colleges.

The government colleges are few, constituting only about 15 to 20 percent of the total number of colleges in the country. They are managed by the state governments. However, as in the case of other colleges, the university to which these colleges are affiliated conducts their examinations, lays down the courses of studies, and awards the degrees.

About 70% of the colleges however, have been funded by the privately-managed trusts or societies. More than one-third of these colleges have been established in rural areas. Their management is constituted according to the norms laid down by the statutes of the university concerned. Their relationship with the university is defined by the university act and statutes. Though established through private initiatives, all of them receive funds from the state governments. The power of granting affiliation to a college generally vests with the universities in consultation with the state governments.

University colleges, also called constituent colleges, are those run and managed by the university itself. Their number is very small.

Studying in India

The professional colleges are mostly in the disciplines of Medicine, Engineering and Management. There are a few for other disciplines too. They are sponsored and managed, some by the government and some by private initiative. In the states of Karnataka, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu, recently there has been a phenomenal growth in the number of privately-managed professional colleges. They do not get any funds from the state and, in almost all cases, have been charging heavy fees covering capital costs and running costs. A Supreme Court judgement has laid down a number of guidelines for admissions and fees charged by such colleges.

The National Policy on Education 1986, advocated autonomy for colleges (and also university departments) with the objective of bringing about decentralisation of academic administration, and promoting innovation and higher standards. This autonomy relates to the framing of courses, holding examinations, innovations in pedagogy and admissions.

The distinctiveness, flexibility and the quality of higher education in India have been attracting more and more international students to come to Indian universities, for studying in India in contrast to the expensive university and higher education offered in the USA, in the Western European countries and in Australia. Higher education is still highly subsidised in India and therefore affordable. Further, students from developing countries feel a greater sense of belonging and confidence sharing as they have many social and cultural values common with India.

Structure

In the Indian system, higher education includes the education imparted after the 10+ 2 stage - ten years of primary and secondary education followed by two years of higher secondary education.

Courses and Degrees

Undergraduate Courses

Undergraduate courses, in general, are of three years leading to the final examinations. The universities and higher institutes award Bachelor's degree in Arts, Science, Commerce, etc. However, undergraduate courses leading to a first degree in professional subjects like Engineering, Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy are of a longer duration ranging from four to five and a half years.

Postgraduate Courses

Courses in Arts, Science and Medicine usually last two years ending with a Master's degree. For Engineering and Technology, the courses are for one and a half years. In some specialised fields for instance, for a Bachelor of Education (B.Ed) degree, the possession of a Bachelor's degree in any other discipline is required before admission can be obtained.

Some universities and higher institutes offer a diploma or a certificate course of shorter duration in disciplines like Engineering, Agriculture Sciences and Computer Technology. The duration of these courses varies from university to university.

Eligibility for Admission

For admission to undergraduate courses, in the universities or institutes of higher education in India, the candidates need to complete 12 years of schooling. They should have passed in 5 subjects in the Senior Secondary or equivalent examination. Candidates are expected to obtain 60-70% marks in their qualifying examinations. For admission to undergraduate technical courses in Engineering subjects should include; Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics. Admission requirements to undergraduate pass courses are not very rigid. Admission in non -professional colleges is usually not difficult, except in the case of some selected colleges in metropolitan towns where there is strong competition.

Entry into professional colleges, e.g. in Medicine, Engineering, Pharmacy, Dentistry, Architecture, Management or Agriculture is difficult because of the limited number of seats available, and is generally based on a separate admission test. The admission tests for the Indian Institutes of Technology, Indian Institutes of Management, and the All-India Medical Institutes at Delhi and Chandigarh are the toughest. For the Indian Institutes of Technology, for example, 100,000 students in the country take the test and less than 2000 are selected. However, in some cases, overseas applicants can be admitted against nominated seats/paid seats according to prescribed guidelines of the Indian university concerned.

At the postgraduate level, admission is restricted and only the better students can get admission. Certain institutions, because of their reputation, are more sought after than others. In a recent development some universities have started their own tests for admission to postgraduate classes.

Admission to M.Phil. Courses, which started in the '70s, as pre-PhD courses, is competitive. More than 60 percent of the universities have instituted this course which, until recently, was the minimum qualification for appointment as a lecturer. In order to qualify for the M.Phil. Degree, there is a good deal of emphasis on course work, though a dissertation is also required.

Students are admitted to PhD courses if they are able to fulfil the eligibility criteria regarding their research competence and genuine interest in the subject of study. The admission is approved by the Board of Studies, in some cases on the recommendation of a Research Degree Committee of the university concerned. To ensure that a minimum and a uniform standard of research is maintained, the UGC and the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) now conduct a joint selection test twice a year, and about 2000 candidates are declared eligible to pursue research every year. A good number of fellowships are available for those who have qualified the test and wish to pursue higher research.

The universities in the country are autonomous and are free to establish regulations of their own, related to the acceptance of qualifications from countries other than India. The Association of Indian Universities (AIU) has been accepted as an accredited agency at the national level for undertaking the assessment of foreign academic credentials. The following examinations have been equated with the Senior Secondary Examination (Class XII) in this country and is considered to be the minimum admission requirement for the first degree programme, including professional disciplines.

- GCE Examination of the UK with passes in five subjects at the ordinary level (O level) and two subjects at the Advanced Level (A level). For admission to first degree professional courses, three passes at a level in Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics or Biology are essential. Knowledge of English is also compulsory for admission.
- Baccalaureate Examination of France.
- International Baccalaureate of Geneva.
- High school graduation from the accredited institutions of the USA.
- Intermediate/Senior Secondary/Higher Secondary/Certificate level Examination of the approved Board of Secondary Education in Bangladesh, Pakistan, Iran, Iraq, Bahrain, Kuwait, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and other Gulf countries.
- Twelve years of Secondary stage qualifications of National Examination Board/Council of the Ministries of Education of Kenya, Nigeria, Uganda, Tanzania.

Indian universities do not give blanket recognition to the degree/diploma/certificate awarded by foreign universities or educational boards. It is therefore, advisable to apply for admission along with a copy of the syllabus of the qualifying examination passed by an international student in his home country. International students wishing to study at an Indian university are advised to ascertain their eligibility from Indian diplomatic missions or refer to the AIU publication "Equivalence of Foreign Degrees" available with the Indian missions in their country; or write to:

Universities and University Level Institutions in India

At present there are 711 universities in the country including 312 (State Universities) 130 (Deemed Universities) 45 (Central Universities) 173 (Private) 51 (Institute of National importance).

There are more than 36000 colleges affiliated to these universities.

List of UGC Recognized Universities can be accessed at website: www.ugc.ac.in (Annexure-VII)

List of universities/institutes where majority of ICCR students are studying presently is available on ICCR website at www.iccr.gov.in

Academic Year

The academic year usually begins in June or July and ends in March or April. Institutions located in high altitude areas (about one or two percent of the total) follow a different schedule, beginning in March and going on to December. In most universities which follow an annual examination pattern the academic year is divided into three terms. A few universities follow the semester system. There is no organised system of teaching during summer vacations.

Examination System

In case of universities following the annual pattern, an end-of-year

examination is held between March and May and the results are declared two months later. Supplementary examinations are held in October or November. Universities following the semester system have examinations in November-December and March-April.

Most examinations are conducted by the universities; however, some affiliating universities have reduced the number of university examinations for a degree. For example at the Bachelor's level in the humanities, the examinations at the end of the first year may be conducted by the college, and the ones at the end of the second and third years by the university. Centralised evaluation has also been adopted by some universities to save time in the evaluation of scripts. Internal assessment of the work done by the student throughout the year carries 10 to 25 percent of the total marks at the undergraduate level, and 20 to 40 percent at the postgraduate level in some universities. The Engineering, Medicine and Management institutions have generally adopted the internal assessment system completely, using a letter-grade and a credit-point system.

Medium of Instruction

In most of the universities the medium of instruction is English. In case of professional courses, and for science and technical subjects, English is exclusively used for teaching. For the Humanities, Social sciences and Commerce faculties, the medium of instruction is both in English and in regional languages. Postgraduate education is conducted in English in most of the centres.

Distance Education

Correspondence education was started in Indian universities in 1962. In 1982 the first Open University was established at Hyderabad in Andhra Pradesh, and in 1985, the Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU) was established at Delhi. Other Open universities have since been set up in the states of Rajasthan, Maharashtra, Bihar, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka. Many universities have correspondence course institutes for the benefit of part-time or working students.

INDIAN COUNCIL FOR CULTURAL RELATIONS

THE Indian Council for Cultural Relations (ICCR) an autonomous organization established in 1950, with the primary objective of establishing, reviving and strengthening cultural relations and mutual understanding between India and other countries. Its aims, as enunciated in the Memorandum of Association, are:

- To participate in the formulation and implementation of policies and programme relating to India's cultural relations with other countries;
- To foster and strengthen cultural relations and mutual understanding between India and other countries;
- To promote cultural exchange with other countries and peoples;
- To establish and develop relations with national and international organizations in the field of culture.

Academic Activities

ICCR has established many India Studies Chairs to promote studies pertaining to various aspects of India in universities and institutions abroad,

ICCR regularly organizes international seminars and conferences on themes relevant to its mandate.

ICCR has been playing an equally important role in the field of education for international students in India. It offers a number of scholarships to foreign nationals to pursue higher studies in Indian universities and other recognised institutes of higher learning. A description of various scholarships offered by the ICCR can be seen in Chapter 6. Scholarships are also given for learning Indian classical music and dance and to study Indian paintings and sculptures. In addition, summer camps and cultural tours are organised every year by the Council for international students and scholars to acquaint them with the diverse cultural scenario of India and at the same time providing opportunities to promote contacts.

Cultural programmes by international students are organised by the ICCR on appropriate occasions. This permits the international students to present their respective national or regional cultural profiles and promotes mutual understanding and appreciation between participating countries. ICCR also maintains a network of International Students' Advisors (ISA) in Indian universities to assist international students in various ways, from arranging admissions, hostel accommodations to extending help in emergencies. A list of ISAs has been given in Annexure V.

The ICCR headquarters is located in New Delhi at Azad Bhavan and has twenty branches. Each regional office has in its jurisdiction the universities and institutions within that zone and is responsible for extending advice and assistance to international students studying there.

The ICCR helps in the following activities:

Reception on Arrival

The council takes care of international scholars from the moment they land in India. Its representatives arrange to meet them on their first arrival and guide them for onward travel to the places of their studies.

Indian Language Teaching

The Council encourages the international students to learn Indian languages, recommends and arranges through the Indian universities to provide teaching facility to international students who wish to learn Hindi and other Indian languages.

Social Get-togethers

To make foreign scholars feel at home and bring them in contact with Indian families, the Council arranges frequent social get-togethers. The Council also celebrates Indian festivals like Diwali, Christmas, Republic Day and Independence Day.

Excursion and Study Tours

During short vacations the Council organises picnics, excursions and study tours to developmental projects and places of historical importance throughout India.

Summer Camps

During summer vacations the Council organises summer camps for international students. These camps are of 8-10 days and have become very popular. The camps are held in well-known hillstations of Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh and in South India. Many International students from various countries participate in these camps.

Studying in India

ICCR Newsletter

The Council also brings out a monthly newsletter giving information on the various activities being performed by the Council. This newsletter is available at all the universities and the offices of ICCR and is distributed free of charge.

International Students' Advisors

In all its activities in the fields of welfare of international students, the Council is assisted by the international students' advisors functioning in various universities throughout India, as indicated in Annexure V. The advisors keep in touch with the students in their respective universities and give them guidance and assistance. The advisors invite the students at social gatherings and introduce them to Indian families. They also organise home-hospitality programmes for the international students. Whenever cases of illness are reported to the international students' advisors, they help the students in arranging proper medical help.

General Guidance

The Council automatically pays the scholarship stipend for the first three months to scholarship holders of the Government of India. Subsequent payments are released upon receipt of the scholar's joining report (Annexure III). The Council also helps the international students in obtaining income tax clearance certificates. The Council also helps the scholars in finding accommodation. In case of any problem, the scholar can contact anyone of the offices of the ICCR.

Registration with the Council

A student can register with the Council for information regarding summer camps, study tours, introduction courses, home-hospitality programmes with Indian families, celebration of national days, concerts, film shows, social get-togethers and sports tournaments and for assistance in railway concession and other travel benefits.

The ICCR will be glad to be of help in every possible way.

More details on the ICCR's welfare activities can be found in Chapter 8 of this book.

THE Self-Financing International Students' Scheme provides facilities to those students who would like to fully finance their studies, stay and all other expenses by themselves. The facilities provided for different disciplines are briefly given below.

No clearance from Government of India is required for admission to general courses. Foreign students are required to apply directly to the university concerned, which would then issue a provisional admission letter, depending upon the eligibility. Based on the admission letter, a student visa is issued by the Indian mission abroad. No international student can be admitted to any university or college without a student's visa. A valid residential permit in India, granted for studies is treated at par with a student's visa.

International students under self-financing schemes seeking admission to courses such as Bachelor's and Master's degree in Arts, Science, Commerce, Education, Law, or M.Phil and PhD programmes can apply directly to the institutions concerned.

Courses in Performing Arts

Courses in Indian arts, Indian music and Indian classical dances are available in some universities and specialised centres. International students can obtain admission both in undergraduate and postgraduate courses in these fields. Facilities for doing research work in Indian performing and plastic arts are also available.

Undergraduate Courses in Medicine

Direct admission of international students to MBBS, BDS or any other medical course offered by public and government medical institutions is not possible. Admission to these courses is possible only against nominations made by different Ministries or Departments of the Government of India such as Health & Family Welfare (Deptt. of Health), under the Self-Financing Foreign Students' Scheme or various other scholarship schemes. For students from developing countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America, where facilities for medical education are either inadequate or not available at all, a limited number of seats are reserved in the MBBS and BDS courses. The exact number and country-based allocation of these reserved seats vary annually. Students seeking admission against the reserved seats are required to submit their applications through the Indian missions abroad.

Applicants should have passed 10 + 2 Senior School level examination with Physics, Chemistry and Biology. English at Advanced Subsidiary (AS) level equivalent to CBSE class XI is compulsory.

Studying in India

Last date of submission of application is usually the 28th February of the corresponding year. An international student must have completed 12 years of schooling. International students studying in schools in India, can submit their applications pending the declaration of their Higher Secondary (10+ 2) or equivalent examination results. The mark sheet of the examination should however, be sent within 10 days from the declaration of the result to the : Students Cell, Room No. 1121, Ministry of External Affairs, Jawaharlal Nehru Bhavan, 23 D, Janpath, New Delhi- 110001, Phone No.: 011-49015437.

International students can seek direct admission to undergraduate courses in Medicine (MBBS) and Dentistry (BDS) in private medical colleges recognised by the Medical Council of India. For more information, the students can contact the Indian Embassy or the Indian High Commission in their country. All foreign students can seek direct admission to MBBS/BDS courses in private medical colleges recognised by the Medical Council of India, subject to the production of a "No Objection" Certificate from the Ministry of Health & Family Welfare. These private colleges have been authorised to admit foreign students every year. They charge a capitation fee ranging from US $ 30,000 to 40,000 per student per course. Foreign students are required to submit their particulars to the Department of Health in the prescribed form, a copy of which is enclosed. (Annexure I)

Postgraduate Courses in Medicine

Self-financing international students seeking admission to postgraduate courses in medicine can only apply to the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi, Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education & Research, Chandigarh and Jawaharlal Institute of Post Graduate Medical Education and Research, Pondicherry. All the three institutes conduct a written competitive examination twice a year doing the January and July sessions. The students are required to appear for their examination and pay the examination fees themselves. International students wishing to appear for the entrance examination should submit their application forms to the Students Cell, Room No. 1121, Ministry of External Affairs, Jawaharlal Nehru Bhavan, 23 D, Janpath, New Delhi- 110001, Phone No.: 011-49015437, in the prescribed forms of the respective institute. Candidates are also advised to consult the Handbook of Indian Universities available with the Indian missions abroad to ensure the availability of their choice of a course in India. The application form should include the required number of copies of educational certificates along with three copies of passport-size photographs. In some cases, a no objection certificate from the candidate's employer or place of work is also required.

Visa Regulations

All international students wishing to come to India, on self-financing or under a scholarship scheme, are required to get a students' visa from Indian missions abroad. For students on Government of India scholarships, the respective Indian missions are advised by the ICCR to issue a regular student visa after the student's admission in an Indian university is confirmed. Students coming on a self-financing basis should produce confirmed letters of admission from universities or recognised colleges and institutions in India for obtaining the regular student visa.

Students coming to pursue research studies in India at the M.Phil, Ph.D or Post-doctoral level should obtain a separate research visa from the Indian missions in their parent countries.

Students not having firm letters of admission from universities or institutions will be issued a Provisional Student Visa by the Indian missions abroad, on the basis of provisional letters of admissions. These Provisional Student Visas will be valid for 3 months. Within these 3 months, admission will have to be confirmed otherwise the student will have to leave India. No extension of the Provisional Student Visa is permitted.

A student applying for regular or the Provisional Student Visa will have to indicate the name of the university or college or institution where the admission has been arranged. The name of the university or college or institution is then mentioned in the visa. A request for change of university or institution subsequently made, cannot be considered.

"Change of purpose" of visit of international students to India is not allowed once they arrive in India. Therefore, students coming to India on tourist or any other type of visa, cannot get their visa changed to Student Visa once they are in India. According to government regulations if an international student coming to India on a tourist or any other type of visa (except a Student Visa), obtains admission into a university or any institution in India, the student will be required to return to his country and obtain a new visa (i.e. a Student Visa) from the Indian mission there. To avoid this situation, all self-financing international students are advised to obtain a regular or a provisional student visa from Indian missions abroad by producing confirmed or provisional letters of admission from a university or an institution.

Some Important Advice to International Students

Before Departure from his country

Studying in India

It is advisable to find out from the nearest Indian diplomatic mission about travel, health, and other documents that are required before coming to India. The documents listed below may be necessary for international students coming to India:

- Valid Passport;
- Confirmed letter of acceptance or a provisional admission certificate from a university or a college or institution;
- Proof of availability of sufficient funds for the duration of studies in India for self-financing international students;
- Student's Visa - Research, Regular or Provisional;
- Health certificate and AIDS-free certificate.

Information regarding customs and baggage rules is available with the Indian diplomatic missions abroad. Students are advised to consult these rules before coming to India.

It may be noted that as a general rule no financial assistance is available from the limited resources of Indian universities or colleges. A student should also not count on the possibility of getting jobs and earning some money during vacation periods. International students are therefore, urged to make adequate financial arrangements from their home country for the entire period of stay in India. Scholars under the Government of India Scholarship Schemes will however, receive a monthly maintenance allowance.

As the universities and other educational institutions have limited hostel facilities, international students are advised to apply for hostel accommodation sufficiently in advance and obtain confirmed acceptance while applying for admission. Staying in private accommodation may prove to be rather expensive.

On Arrival in India

An international scholar should make sure that he has enough money to meet expenses in transit as well initial expenditure at his place of study. If he is carrying travellers' cheques he must remember that these are accepted only at certain places. While banks will readily change them and some of the larger hotels and commercial establishments will accept them, it would not do to present a travellers' cheque to a barber or a small shopkeeper.

Students under the Government of India Scholarship Scheme should remember that a representative of ICCR will invariably meet the scholar on arrival unless information of arrival is received late. The international student is expected to meet all his expenses like portage, taxi fare and he should not expect ICCR to pay on his behalf. The ICCR official will arrange and help the student obtain temporary accommodation, help him for his further onward journey by train or air and pay him his 3 months' advance stipend. If by any chance, the ICCR does not have any information about the scholar's arrival in India or the scholar fails to meet the ICCR official at the airport, the scholar should contact ICCR headquarters at New Delhi or any other regional office of ICCR.

Joining the Institute and Accommodation

After arriving in India, international students should try to complete the admission formalities immediately. They ought to contact the Registrar of the university or the Head of the department concerned. After completing admission formalities, the students must immediately get in touch with the hostel superintendent for their hostel accommodation. For details on how to obtain campus housing please refer to chapter 7. They should contact YMCA, YWCA or youth hostels when hostel accommodation in the universities is not available. A list of such youth hostels is given in Annexure VI. students should bear in mind, that accommodation on long term basis is not fixed in these places. Therefore, alternate private arrangements should be made by them as soon as possible.

The housing problem is not so acute in small towns, but in larger cities the problem is as acute for Indians as for foreigners. The student should not take it as a lack of hospitality or a sign of unfriendliness if he finds it difficult to get good accommodation.

The scholar can also contact the International Student's Advisor of his university for a list of landlords who are willing to rent out their apartments to overseas scholars for a reasonable amount. The scholar can also contact the regional offices of the organization "Experiment in International Living" for possible contact addresses to stay and for advice on how to adjust to Indian conditions.

Joining Report and Payments

After joining their respective institutes, the scholarship students must send their joining reports to ICCR. A specimen format may be seen at Annexure III. Further release of maintenance allowance and payment of tuition and other compulsory fees of the institution are made by the ICCR only after receiving the joining report of the scholar. Scholars must send their joining reports at the earliest through their respective institutions.

The students also should obtain a certificate ("TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN") and identity card from ICCR stating that he is a scholarship awardee, mentioning the rate and duration of the scholarship and the ICCR File Number.

The scholarship is awarded for entire duration of the course. A student can claim his maintenance fee or stipend until the end of his scholarship by filling in a Scholarship or Fellowship Claim Form. It must be noted however that his scholarship is linked to his academic progress and this is closely monitored by the ICCR. A student failing in his studies or having been struck off from the university rolls due to any reason can have his scholarship terminated immediately.

All payments (except the three months advance cash allowance) are made directly to the Bank Account of the student.

House rent allowance (HRA) is given in cases where hostel accommodation is not available to the scholar and he makes his own private arrangement. For payment of HRA, a certificate from the institution stating that hostel accommodation could not be provided to the scholar, is required.

As mentioned earlier, during a scholar's stay at the university, he is better advised to send progress reports of his academic performance on a regular basis for smooth disbursement of his stipend.

Medical Expenses

All expenses except dentures, spectacles, surgical appliances or artificial aids will be reimbursed if incurred on the advice of the campus or government medical officer in accordance with CGHS norms. It is better to keep all prescriptions bills and submit them with a written explanation to the ICCR.

Registration with the FRRO

All students staying longer than 6 months are required to register with the Foreigner's Regional Registration Office (FRRO). The FRRO office in Delhi is located at:

Address: East Block —VIII,
Level 2, Sector 1, R.K Puram
New Delhi-110066.

Contact Phone No at FRRO Office: (11) 26711443, 25652389
(11) 26195530, 26171944, 26192634 Ext. 142/302/141

The student should carry

- His passport;
- A copy of his passport and student visa;
- A bonafide student letter from the university;
- Scholarship holders should take their ICCR letter of scholarship award and confirmation of admission and bonafide certificate;
- Non-scholarship holders need proof of a bank account! sufficient funds;
- 4 passport size photographs;
- Check his air/train fare for plane/train type and No.;
- A pen.

The student should fill in 3 Registration Reports and 1 Residential Permit Booklet. Visa extensions and area permits can also be obtained here. One needs permission ("No Objection") from the FRRO in the students' booklet every time he wants to leave India.

Evaluation and Grading System

Although this varies from university to university in general, the grades are usually based upon:

- presence in class;
- participation in class;
- term papers/book reviews;
- presence in seminars;
- mid/end of semester exams;
- MPhil dissertation/PhD thesis and viva voce

Departure Tips

Once the student completes his course and is ready to leave for his parent country, the following formalities have to be completed:

1. Obtaining a "No Objection" Certificate from the university. The student has to clear all his dues such as hostel, mess charges, library dues, etc., before this certificate is issued.

Studying in India

2. Submitting an application on the appropriate form (A provisional certificate is given, i.e. marksheet and proof of taking the examinations); it will be issued usually a week after the results are out.
3. Submitting a form in the university administration office for the original degree to be sent home - that can take up to two years;
4. Asking for a letter of recognition/recommendation/testimony from the students' professor(s).
5. Scholarship holders should make sure he has claimed the whole amount of his scholarship, i.e. all monthly maintenance fees, the refund of the admission fee and the contingency fund.
6. One should report to the airport at least two hours before check in.

Students planning to leave India after completing their studies may kindly contact the nearest regional office/ICCR headquarters in New Delhi for further information.

It's a good idea to keep in touch with students who will stay longer in India so that they can help the departing scholar in case he needs something later on from the administration or have his mail forwarded. It is better to give them a signed authorisation letter.

Hostel

AN international student should contact the hostel superintendent of the institute after completing his admission formalities. Universities and colleges in India usually have more than one students' hostel. It is advisable that a student applies for enrolment in all the hostels available so that he has a higher chance of being accommodated in at least one of them.

Rooms are allotted on a first come first serve basis and there is a shortage of rooms in most Indian universities. Students should go to the office of the Dean of Students and complete the application forms given to them. The forms should state clearly that he is a foreign student and where he is staying in anticipation of a hostel room. It is better to avoid getting a room near the bathrooms or right under the roof (as it can get very hot in the summers).

Sometimes, in case of some hostels, limited hours of water supply and of late frequent power cuts make a stay in an Indian hostel quite a challenge. However living in a hostel keeps the international student in touch with what's going on in the campus. Living off- campus requires own arrangements for rent, transportation, buying and preparing of food etc.

If a hostel room is not yet available, the student can ask the Dean of Students to recommend him to the Public Relations Officer for temporary stay in a guest house.

The student should go to the assigned hostel and deposit the hostel fee. The deposit is refundable and the room rent per semester is nominal for a double (single) room and most university hostels also take an advance for the mess fee. This new address should be filled in the student's identity card.

Studying in India

Generally two students are allotted one room in the hostel, although in some places single rooms are made available. Hostellers are required to buy their bedding sets, locks, electric bulbs, etc. Every hostel has its rules and regulations, which should be obeyed by all students, Indian and international. The hostel superintendent looks after the welfare of the students.

Hostels provide Indian food which varies from region to region. In the North and West, the meal consists of 'chapatis' a kind of bread, some vegetables and lentils, while in the East and South the staple food is rice. Yogurt is a frequent item as are simple salads and pickles. In most of the hostels, vegetarian as well as non-vegetarian food is served, but there are hostels, where non-vegetarian food is not available at all. The food is usually hot and spicy and rice, chapatis, dal are available in plenty.

The usual timings for meals in hostels are:

Breakfast	7.30 a.m. to 9.00 a.m.
Lunch	12.45 p.m. to 2.00 p.m.
Tea	5.00 p.m. to 5.30 p.m.
Dinner	7.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.

It is wise to be punctual.

Sometimes a lunch rebate is possible but only for the whole month; In some cases, one can get a complete mess rebate for a limited period, with a simple written application. For longer periods the signature of the students' centre chairperson/guide is required (a mess rebate is only possible once a month). The student can extend his rebate when he is out of station by telegram or registered letter to the mess warden. If the student eats during the rebate, he has to buy a guest coupon.

Generally the mess bill is paid every month on a particular date.

Private Accommodation

A certificate would have to be issued by the university authorities certifying that no hostel accommodation is available. Of course, living outside the college is comparatively an expensive proposition.

College and Hostel Associations

Every college and hostel has a students' union. It is best to join these associations since these unions are the hub of student activity outside the classroom. Besides the unions, there are societies like the Arts club, Dramatic societies, Debating societies, indoor and outdoor games' clubs and the like, into which students can enlist themselves depending upon their individual interests.

Indian Fellow Students

It is advisable that international students mix freely with Indian students. Occasionally an international student may be asked unpleasant questions arising out of ignorance of the country and people, and/or incorrect information, which would be best to shrug off without taking any offence.

Clothes

Climate and seasons as stated earlier, are varied. Students studying in institutions in north India will require heavy woolen garments during winter. Students in other regions of the country require light winter garments. A pair of trousers and a shirt or a T-shirt are commonly worn by men. Women can use skirts and blouses or Indian outfits, such as salwar kameezes. Readymade garments can be bought in markets and shops in all cities. Washermen for cleaning and laundering clothes are available in all hostels. Facilities for dry cleaning are also available in cities. Clothes can be ironed at reasonable rates.

Room Repairs

Usually all universities are equipped with carpenters and electricians who do the repairs. Complaints should be lodged at the university repairs' office for the repairs to be done. No tips should be given as the services are generally free of charge.

Shopping

Shopping centres and markets are located in downtown areas but small shopping complexes are located near the hostels and campuses of colleges and universities where daily necessities can be purchased. Prices of all articles are printed on the label to avoid overcharging. Buyers must be careful and should not pay more than the labelled price.

Banks

Students should never keep heavy cash with them. Keeping aside funds sufficient to last for a week or so, the heavier amount should be kept in a bank. To open a bank account, an international student has to present the bonafide certificates to the bank. Sometimes a letter of introduction from the Principal, Registrar or International Student's Advisor is also required. Generally the following documents are required:

- student's passport;
- photocopy of his passport and visa; 3 passport size photographs;
- bonafide student certificate;

Studying in India

- Rs. 1000/- for the deposit;
- FRRO Residence Booklet - photocopy;
- the warden/account holder has to sign the bank form;
- Police Verification Certificate letter from the university to request the police to certify the scholar. (Usually this is a time consuming procedure which will take 3 days to complete).

To make a draft, the scholar has to mention the branch of the bank where the addressee can claim his money, pay the commission (e.g. Rs.5 up to Rs.5000) and keep the receipt.

Cashing Indian cheques is possible in the campus banks (10:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.; excluding holidays): The scholar should put the date and sign on the back of the cheque, show his Identity Card(s) - if he doesn't have a bank account, also obtain the signature/account no. of any account holder (verified in the first room) - and join the queue. It is good to double check and count the notes one is receiving.

In all universities, extension branches of nationalised banks operate for the benefit of students. Banking hours are mostly from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on weekdays. Sundays are holidays for the banks. Banks are closed on public holidays as well.

Currency

The nomenclature of the Indian currency is the Rupee. One Rupee is divided into 100 paise. Notes are available for Rs.1000, 500, 100, 50, 20, 10, 5 & 2. Coins are available for Rs.10, 5, 2 & 1.

The rate of exchange between the Rupee and foreign currencies varies from day to day. The mean rate of exchange at present, for Rs.100 is US dollars $1.5 and Euro 1.41.

The student should check before he purchases whether he can use his credit card.

Stapled money is okay but if the banknote is even slightly torn, it is better to refuse it or it will be refused.

Telecommunications

Telecommunication in India has greatly been supported by the INSAT system of the country, one of the largest domestic satellite systems in the world. India possesses a diversified communications system, which links all parts of the country by telephone, Internet, radio, television and satellite.

The telephone and mobile network in India is spread all over the country, with even the most remote areas connected with STD/ISD services.

To make international calls dial 00 (international access code from India) + country code (of the country you are calling) + area code + local number.

There are several Cyber Cafes available at most of the places in India which offer internet access.

Medical Facility

Every college and university has medical facilities of its own which can be utilised by students, Indian and international alike. In case of serious illness or special treatment, one can visit the government hospitals. In most of the prominent public hospitals, some reservations of beds have been made for students. An international student can be admitted also to a "paid ward" of a public hospital. There are private nursing homes and hospitals also, but treatment in these centres is always very expensive. An international student should approach the headquarters or the regional offices of the ICCR for guidance and help in the event of any serious illness.

Some Useful Health Precautions

It is wise to avoid wayside eating-shops and unhygienic restaurants. An international student should resist the temptation of eating sweets, fried or highly spiced dishes if he is not accustomed to them. He should avoid drinking cold water unless he is reasonably sure it is clean. Boiled water or water to which chlorine tablets have been added can be used for drinking. Bottled mineral water is also available. One can attempt some physical exercise every day but one should avoid excessive perspiration and exposure to the sun in summer. India is a tropical country and it is better to get inoculated against typhoid, cholera and hepatitis B infections. It is a good idea to take precautions against mosquitoes, houseflies and other insects. If one travels in India, one should see to it that he takes only hygienically cooked food and boiled water. If one goes to hill stations or holiday resorts only bottled mineral water or boiled water should be taken.

Transport

Trains

Transport system in India is good. There is a good railway network. The Indian

Studying in India

Railways provide various types of railway travel facilities Airconditioned first class, Airconditioned second-class, Airconditioned chair car, Second class sleeper, Second class etc. Advance reservation for sleeper accommodation is required. Reservation of berths or seats is possible one month before the date of journey.

Online Internet-based rail ticket booking through its website <https://www.irctc.co.in> as well as from the mobile phones via GPRS or SMS is available. The tickets PNR status is also made available.

Tickets, particularly tickets in advance, can be purchased at the railway station or better at the railway booking offices. One can buy tickets also through authorised travel agents for long distance journeys. One can break one's journey in the midway for a certain number of days and again proceed further with the same ticket without payment of any extra charge. Round trip or return tickets valid for 3 months are available, also for journey to hill stations.

Reservation timing are from Mon-Sat (8:00 a.m. – 8:00 p.m.) and Sunday (8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.). "RAC" means Reservation against Cancellation (one is allowed to board the train (seating) and the conductor will try to find a berth for you). ("Waiting list" does not give the person the right to board.) Booked tickets can be refunded, the fees depending on the time before or after departure.

There is a separate counter for tourists (only for foreigners and Non Resident Indians) at the New Delhi Railway Station; Monday-Saturday, 8:00 a.m. – 8:00 p.m.); Payment is either in foreign currency or in rupees.

Some travel agencies can help in the reservation of train tickets. Railway stations are usually very crowded. The students should check with the porters for the right platform and the ticket/name against the lists that are pasted on the respective coaches. It is good to take a chain and padlock to secure the luggage. Carrying a water container and/or snacks is preferable. Both are available in every station but the tap water quality varies widely. It is better not to venture too far from the train as it may leave suddenly.

Metro Train Network

For local commutation metro train services are available in Major cities.

Air Travel

All major cities are connected by air travel, mostly through Indian Airlines. Tickets can be purchased in advance and concessions to students are available on production of certificates similar to train travel. Air travel is comparatively expensive.

Bus Service

Facilities of travel by bus exist in all places. In some states bus service has been nationalised. Most of the cities provide reasonably good bus service. Inter-state bus service facilities are available also in state capitals. Queuing for bus is advised. A student need not be surprised should he find that the "First come first serve" rule is not being strictly followed, as the habit of forming a queue is not yet fully developed in all places.

Transport corporations of many states have made arrangements for issue of monthly or quarterly concession travel-passes to students.

Taxi

Taxis are available in cities and the fare is paid according to the meter, but the exact amount payable is determined with the help of a conversion chart carried by the driver. One has to pay extra for luggage. For travelling at night between 11.00 p.m. and 5.00 a.m. a surcharge is payable. Taxi rates vary from state to state in India.

Autorickshaw

Almost all cities in India have autorickshaws for hire. At many places the charges are payable according to meter. In other places the fares are negotiated before the journey. As in the case of taxis, night charges and luggage charges are extra.

Entertainment

Films & Television

Films are the most important form of entertainment in India. Film industry in India is among the largest in the world in terms of films produced (approximately 1000) annually in different languages which include films in Hindi, Kannada, Bengali, Tamil, Telugu, Punjabi and Malayalam. Most towns in India have cinema houses/multiplexes where films in local languages and in Hindi are shown daily. English movies are shown daily in the larger and occasionally in the smaller cities. Local dailies advertise programmes.

Television is one of the major mass media of India and is a huge industry and has thousands of programs in all the states of India. Today India boasts of being the third largest television market in the world. The small screen has produced numerous celebrities of their own kind some even attaining national fame. TV soaps are extremely popular with housewives as well as working women.

Radio

All India Radio (AIR) was established in 1936 which is one of the largest radio networks including the AIR FM. AM, FM and even Satellite Radio have made a huge impact on the Industry in India.

Talks, news and music can be listened to at almost any time of the day. All India Radio broadcasts programmes in many languages.

Several FM Broadcasting services are also available across India

Music and Theatre

There are professional theatre groups in Mumbai, Calcutta and Delhi which are mounting productions on a regular basis for public entertainment. In addition college societies and amateur groups put on plays and variety entertainment in English as well as local languages. In winter especially, there is a good performance worth watching every other evening. Occasionally in the cities, visiting companies and artistes from abroad, stage English plays and concerts and recitals of Western music.

The richest, if not the most frequent, entertainment that one can have in India will be provided by the concerts of Indian classical music and performances of Indian classic dance. In dance, there are four main styles- Bharatanatyam, Kathakali, Kathak and Manipuri. In winter one can find music dance programmes advertised in the papers in which leading artistes of the country perform.

Museums and Art Galleries

In the state capitals, art galleries and museums are maintained by the state. A visit to these will be educative. The important ones are at Delhi, Calcutta, Chennai and Mumbai.

The Press

The press in India enjoys complete freedom of expression and the number of newspapers and periodicals is very large. Important newspapers are published in English as well as in different Indian languages. Their views vary from extreme conservatism to radical liberalism. Illustrated and non-illustrated weeklies and monthlies are also available.

Libraries

All educational institutions have libraries with trained librarians. Apart from these, there are public libraries run by the state or other agencies of which a student can become a borrowing member on being introduced by another member, on payment of a nominal fee. The biggest library in India is the National Library at Calcutta.

Languages

Hindi/Other regional languages

It would greatly enrich the scholar's stay if he could make a small effort towards picking up some Hindi; not only is it useful the moment the scholar leaves the campus - (not every Indian speaks English and finding his way, asking for bus numbers or prices can be challenging) - but it will also help to increase his understanding of the Indian culture (e.g. to sing Hindi movie hit songs!). Most universities offer a free course on Hindi for foreigners (the scholar is advised to check the notice board for advanced and beginner's courses). The quality and frequency, however, vary greatly but on an average works out to 1.5 hours a week. This does not interfere with the scholar's normal course of study, so it may be a good idea to take this course. Books to learn Hindi are widely available. If a scholar wants to join the classes, in some centres there's the possibility of opting for Hindi/Urdu as a credit course - an application form has to be filled and signed by the Head of Department.

English

Most Indian universities consider a good knowledge of English as a prerequisite to pursuing academic studies. The ICCR also notifies the Indian missions in the countries from where nominations are obtained to prefer candidates who have a fluency of English, over the non-English speaking overseas scholars. Knowledge of English helps a scholar acclimatise much faster both socially and academically.

However for those scholars who are still weak in English and find it difficult to follow their classroom lectures, they are advised either to attend special English courses offered by their department or by private institutions. ICCR also arranges to reimburse the fees in some special cases.

THE general welfare of all international students, scholarship holders as well as self-financing students, is also a part of ICCR's responsibilities. The Council organizes various activities throughout the year to familiarize the international students with the political, economic, social and cultural activities of India, besides helping them make friends through shared experiences.

International Students' Advisors

International Students' Advisors are appointed in Indian universities, to look after the welfare of international students. They are senior faculty members who help the scholars in settling down at the university, monitor the scholars' academic progress and remain the first point of contact for the scholar in case of any emergency, medical illness, financial difficulties etc. The International Students' Advisors also liaise with ICCR for disbursement of stipend etc. to the students. On festive occasions such as Diwali, Holi, Independence Day, Republic Day, etc, the International Students' Advisors play an active role in arranging functions and celebrations in the ICCR Regional Offices or universities.

The list of International Students' Advisors is given at Annexure V.

Publications

Preparations of Information Booklets and Brochures

ICCR regularly bring out books, brochures and newsletters for the international students. Handbooks such as "Studying in India", brochures on scholarship programmes giving information and outlining the terms and conditions of ICCR's scholarship programmes have proved to be very popular with the overseas scholars. All these books provide information on the system of education at Indian Universities, the Indian way of life and tips on how to adjust to Indian living conditions.

Summer and Winter Camps

Since the inception of the scholarship programme, ICCR has been making use of the vacation period to arrange regular summer and winter camps for its scholarship holders as well as for scholars who fund their own studies in India. During the summer months, ICCR arranges tours to hill-stations such as Kullu-Manali, Ooty, Shimla, etc. During the winter months sea-side resorts such as Goa and Thiruvananthapuram are preferred. Most of the places are chosen for their touristic appeal. ICCR ensures that besides visits to places of historical and tourist interest, the scholars are also exposed to some aspects of India's economy and commerce by including visits to the Indian Oil Corporation Ltd., Mumbai, National Institute of Oceanography, Goa and visits to private enterprises. Summer camps are usually for 10 days and travel is generally by train or by bus. A liaison officer from ICCR accompanies the students and arranges to accommodate the scholars in good quality hotels or youth hostels. For applying to the camps, interested students should contact: ICCR Headquarters or its Regional Offices.

Information related to the camps is published about a month in advance including on ICCR's website: www.iccr.gov.in. It is better for the students to check the notice board at his department or the university or from the ISA's office and pay with a bank draft. The money is refundable upto a certain ceiling for scholarship holders. Scholarship holders can write an application for the refund.

Orientation Programme

Once every year, in the month of July or August, an orientation programme is organised for the new scholars who come to India to study. The idea of the orientation programme is to provide the scholars with material to help them to adjust to their new surroundings. Guidebooks on India are given to them and they are also informed about India's living conditions especially in the universities. This orientation programme is arranged at the headquarters and at the regional offices of ICCR all over India. It helps the foreign scholars to overcome any teething problems before joining their universities in India.

Cultural Activities

In order to make the overseas scholars feel at home, the ICCR also organizes several cultural functions for the scholars which are participatory in nature. The biggest festival is the International Students' Festival which is organized every year on November 11, the birth anniversary of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad the Founder- 'President of ICCR. This event over the years has become very popular and displays the musical and dance talents of the overseas scholars who depict different aspects of their national culture on stage for their friends and fellow students. In addition there are other festivals to which the students are invited by the regional offices or the International Students' Advisors.

Regional Office

ICCR has 20 regional offices across the country. A list of such offices is shown on pages 16, 17, 18 and 19. The Head of the regional offices, the Regional Director, is always available to the international scholars for help. The Regional Directors also assist in finding accommodation for overseas scholars. As campus housing is becoming difficult to obtain, more and more overseas scholars have to rent out private accommodation out of necessity. The regional offices give out lists of landlords who are willing to let out accommodation to overseas scholars. In this context ICCR has begun close cooperation with an organization called "Experiment in International Living" whose mandate is to act as a "host family" for overseas scholars for easy integration into India's complex social structure. Additionally, the organization has branches all over India and mostly in the regions where there are ICCR regional offices. The regional offices play an active role by maintaining a close liaison with the head office of ICCR and the universities concerned in ensuring that the funding is disbursed in a timely manner and scholars are not inconvenienced. They are also expected to expedite the admission process for the new academic year. Information regarding scholarship programmes is available at the regional offices.

The ICCR and its regional offices also liaise with the Foreigner's Registration Office and ancillary offices of the Home Ministry for helping out students in case of visa problems. International scholars would be well advised to read the chapter on visa regulations.

Q. 1. How can I apply for availing scholarship administered by ICCR.

Ans. ICCR does not entertain application which are sent to ICCR directly by the students. Application has to be routed through Indian Embassy/High Commission situated in your country.

Offer for scholarship under various schemes are sent, along with the prescribed application form, to the Indian Embassies or High commissions concerned which in turn liaise with the host governments and/or advertise the offers themselves for the nominations of candidates. Every year, in November/December, ICCR sends details of available scholarships for the next academic year to Indian diplomatic missions abroad. Missions screen the applicants for their knowledge of English through written and oral test. The applications are forwarded to ICCR by end-February to the extent possible. Direct applications from candidates are not considered by ICCR. The candidates indicate three choices of universities that they wish to join and courses that they wish to pursue. The candidate should clearly mention the course and University to which he/she is seeking admission. The applicants are advised to go through the “University Handbook” available with the Mission or consult the University Grant commission website <http://www.ugc.ac.in/> before giving these details.
