

Brief on India-Mongolia Bilateral Relations

Brief Historic Background

India and Mongolia have interacted since antiquity through the vehicle of Buddhism throughout the history. Some Indian & Mongolian historians established that some tribes from Kangra kingdom migrated to Mongolian territory 10000 years ago. Mangaldev, son of the King headed the migrants and majority of them returned to India after staying there for about 2000 years. These living in Himachal Pradesh and whose family tree consisted of 490 families, called Katoch dynasty, started from 4300. In 1924, the then Prime Minister of Mongolia Mr. A. Amar mentioned in his book – “Short History of Mongolia” that Mongolian forefathers came from backside of Himalayan Mountains.

According to some Mongolian scholars, Buddhism came to Mongolian steppes through Tibet. During the Hunnu State of III century BC and later during the period of Great Mongol Empire Buddhist monks, several traders from India visited Mongolia. In 552 BC, a Lama Narendrayash from the State of Udayana (Northern India) with some others visited Nirun state. As India for Mongols is the country of Buddha, Lamas and students from Mongolia used to visit Nalanda, once the largest residential University in India to study Buddhism.

“India and Mongolia are ancient lands of the ancient people of Asia. The historic and cultural collaboration between India and Mongolia is most fascinating and unique and is as old as the history of the spread of Indian culture and ideas into Central Asia and Siberia. We in India consider the Mongol veneration of Sanskrit, a matter of special privilege. We hold the people of Mongolia in high esteem for preserving in translation as well as in manuscripts, the vast collection of our precious Sanskrit text on our philosophy, poetry, logic and astronomy lost by us over centuries. In modern times, too many Mongols visited India—the land of Buddhism” stated Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee, former EAM in 1978.

In modern times, Buddhism was promoted by cultural and literary contacts between the people of India and Mongolia. Dr. Raghu Vira, founding member of International Academy of Indian Culture in Delhi discovered that Mongolia’s spiritual and literacy heritage was the golden light, the Altangerel, the Suvarna-Prabhasa-Sutra, or the irreducible diamond in the rock of Vajra-chedika. Both India and Mongolia especially during 5-7 century AD were in close Direct contacts. It seems that Buddhism in Mongolia accelerated the process of further spread of Indian culture in Mongolia. The intellectual development of Mongolia was influenced by the Mahayana school of Buddhism and its philosophy. Philosophical treaties of Nagarjuna used even simplified expression of philosophical terminology.

Diplomatic Relations

For Mongolians, India is one of counter-weights to their neighbours, a “spiritual neighbour”, a declared third neighbor and strategic partner and centre for pilgrimage. India established diplomatic relations with Mongolia on 24 December 1955. In January 1956, we had first Mongolian Ambassador in New Delhi. Indian resident Mission in Ulaanbaatar was opened on 22 February 1971. Earlier, Indian Ambassador in Moscow (T.N. Kaul) was concurrently accredited. Mongolians appreciate Indian's support to its membership in United Nations in 1961 which was championed by Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru. In 1991, India supported Mongolia's membership to Non-Aligned Movement (NAM). Mongolia along with India and Bhutan co-sponsored famous UN Resolution for the recognition of Bangladesh as an independent country in 1972.

First ever visit by PM Shri Narendra Modi to Mongolia in May 2015 marked the 60th anniversary of establishment of diplomatic relations between India and Mongolia.
